Warning Issued On Inflammable Sweater Sales

Fire Chief Fred Pimental and Police Chief Ralph Jensen of Albany today issued a warning to the residents of this area to be aware of the purchase of sweaters and possibly of vests being sold door to door.

These products are highly inflammable and dangerous to wear. Deaths caused from these sweaters bursting into flame from just lighting a cigarette have been recorded by the State Fire Marshal's office.

"Sale of these sweaters is just another form of racket and their sale is illegal. Persons selling this merchandise buy it for a very small sum, then peddle it as hot merchandise to the unsuspecting housewife at prices four times its value," says Police Chief Ralph Jensen.

"Persons selling this merchandise have been apprehended, but some are still at large selling this dangerous material. It is up to the householder when she is approached to immediately notify the police in order to keep this illegal merchandise out of our city." The two chiefs said.

Pimental of the Fire Department says that tests have been made by his department and the State Fire Marshal's office on the material, and it was found to be so inflammable that the state saw fit to pass a law against its sale.

United Crusade Drive to Seek Ten Millions

Setting their sights on the largest amount of money ever raised in the Bay Area for health, welfare and guidance services—$10,691,640, 10,000 volunteers this month are launching the United Bay Area crusade in 143 communities, including Albany.

This is 20 per cent more than the amount raised in the Bay Area last year by five separate crusades, according to Chief of Police Ralph Jensen, Albany campaign chairman. Still short of the sum needed by agencies to do their best service or the community, the ten million dollar figure will keep present progress in operation and allow for some expansion of rapidly growing areas.

Guiding the campaign in Albany, and assisting Chairman Jensen, are the following: Cecil Wentz, business; Mrs. Eugene M. Blank, residential; Bert F. Griffin, education; Sid Wallace, commerce and industry; and Inspector Art Smith, public employees.

William McAuley is president of the Crusade cabinet, and Mrs. Robert Kleinhammer is public relations chairman.

There will be a special "live" window display, showing craftwork being done under direction of United Crusade agencies at Albany Y.M.C.A. and the Albany Girl Scout Division at the Simmons Shade Store, 1335 Solano Avenue, and Denham's Department Store, 1185 Solano Avenue, on Saturday—tomorrow—from 11 a.m. to 12 noon.

Evangelist Lindley's experience in both the Pastoral and Evangelistic fields of endeavor make him an interesting speaker. He is dynamic in his presentation of the Gospel. When you hear him, you will hear evangelist preaching at its best.

Mrs. Lindley will be present each evening in the services, and will bring messages in song with her evangelist husband.

Mr. Clayton Green, Director of Music for the local Church, will lead the congregation in hymns of inspiration.

Rev. Robert W. Pitts, pastor of the Church, extends an invitation to everyone to attend these services, which will be held each evening at 7:30 p.m. and continuing on through October 10th.

COUNCILMEN ASK STRICT ORDINANCE ON POULTRY

Albany's City Council wavered a storm of protests over the slaughtering of poultry on San Pablo Avenue Monday night and came up with a compromise proposal which it is thought will bring relief to the protestants and, at the same time save the operator from the possibility of having to close down his business.

Residents of the 900 Block on Kains Avenue, directly back of the poultry business at 937 San Pablo, have complained bitterly over what they claim to be unbearable odors, a plague of rats and the noise and squawking poultry. They have demanded that the killing of poultry be forbidden.

On the other hand, the assistant health officer and sanitary expert for the City, has reported the business is being conducted according to existing ordinances adopted some 16 or 17 years ago, that the place is being kept clean, and is not a menace to health. City officials have expressed the fear that if the poultry market operator, William Heath, is compelled to give up the slaughter of poultry it could conceivably force him out of business. Such a result, it is said, could very well give the City a "back-ye" and perhaps irradicate away industrial firms which might seek a location in Albany.

Some weeks ago, when the first complaints over the slaughtering came before the Council, a complete ban on the operation was proposed by Councilwoman Zahn, and an ordinance revising the one adopted 17 years ago was drawn up by the City Attorney. At Monday's session Councilman Edward Combs moved to "table" the proposed ordinance, and this was passed, Mrs. Zahn voting "No."

Combs then said, "You can't without good reason legislate a man out of business. It would be like cutting off a man's head to cure a cold. You cure the cold, but you kill the patient." As a substitute to the tabled ordinance Combs proposed that the Council direct the Health Department to investigate the problem and prepare an ordinance to strictly control the business, with special attention to the question of odors and objectionable noises, the proposed draft to be submitted to members of the Council not later than Oct. 14 to enable the members to thoroughly familiarize themselves with the terms prior to the council meeting.

Strict Poultry

Ordinance Sought

of Oct. 17, Mrs. Zahn again voted "No," but the motion was approved 4 to 1. Mrs. Zahn characterized the action as "Passing the buck."

Various measures to eliminate objections to the slaughtering were offered, including air and sound proof rooms, air blowers, special refrigeration, etc., but final suggestions were left up to the Health Department in drafting the new ordinance.

Mayor Howell assured the crowd a attendance at the meeting that "if we can find a solution to the problem Mr. Heath can stay in business. If we can't find the answer the slaughtering will have to cease."

The Mayor also asserted that he was worried about the possible liability of the City to damage suits, and cited a similar case in Cicero, Illinois in recent years, where a poultry operator won judgment from the city for a fabulous sum and that it was necessary to raise the city taxes approximately 20 per cent in order to alight the costs to the city.

In other council action Councilman Jerome Blank brought out the fact that the City has approximately $120,000 in the treasury of gas tax funds which can only be used for new street construction. He declared the City has used its full quota in maintenance work, but that new construction means developing streets that meet the State requirements, but that all such streets as they exist have been brought up to date. He suggested that City Engineer Howard Carter be directed to seek the aid of the University of California Institute of Traffic Management in an effort to reach a solution. He suggested such streets as Kains and A could be worked into the program if they were made "one-way" streets. He said the institute would make a survey to this end at no cost to the City of Albany. Blank's suggestion was put in the form of a motion, and approved by the Council 4 to 0. Mrs. Zahn not voting.

Furniture Making Training Course to Start Wednesday

The basic training course in furniture making and refinishing, the completion of which is a prerequisite for working on pieces and dual pieces of furniture, is opening at the Albany Adult Education Center on Wednesday evening, Oct. 12. Those interested should enroll in the office of the Adult Center on that evening and attend the course on Wednesday and Friday evenings, Oct. 12, 14, 19, 21, and 26 at the Albany High School building, 603 Key Route Blvd. All classes are held from 7 to 10, and students, new to the woodshop program of the Adult Center, must attend any 12 of the scheduled 18 hours offered before they can be transferred to the regular classes in furniture making and refinishing and woodshop.

This basic course, taught by Frank Turner, regular woodshop teacher of Albany High School and the Adult Center, covers both the use and care of hand tools and instruction in safe procedures to observe when using power equipment. In addition, the finishing and refinishing of furniture and the basic processes to follow in these are discussed and demonstrated in detail. The course is so planned that a student is able, at the end of the basic training, to start work immediately on his or her individual project with a good knowledge of "what to do."

After the students have completed the basic course, they may enroll in the regular evening classes scheduled for Mondays and Wednesdays, 7 to 10. In addition there will be a special class for women only on Saturday mornings, if the enrollment justifies it. No advance registration is necessary according to Robert G. Dennis, principal of the Adult Center. The course is open to residents of neighboring communities as well as those of Albany.

REMOVING TAR

When removing tar from the body of your car, a thing more motorists do at this season than at any other, don't just dip a cloth in gasoline because that makes a sticky solution.

Before doing that, points out the National Automobile Club, make certain that the fuel does not contain a coloring matter or Ethyl and Gasoline of this type is likely to be damaging to the finish of the car. Other handy home remedies are lard and butter and they are safer.

LONG CHANNEL

The waterway which connects Stockton with San Francisco Bay is 88 miles long, reports the California State Automobile Association.

Teachers Council Group in Meeting

The Bay Section, California Teachers Association Council, governing body of the 21,000 teachers in the Bay Area, held its first meeting of the school year Saturday, Oct. 1, in the Washington School, Berkeley.

Don Young, Albany High School teacher, is the representative elected by the local teacher associations to the Bay Section Council.

The committee on teacher recruitment recommended action to help relieve the shortage of adequately trained teachers in many districts. Methods for raising professional standards of teachers were considered by the council as means of improving the quality of education. The legislative committee reported on the CTA-sponsored measures passed by the last legislature and signed by the governor.

Public Speaking Registration Open At Adult Center

The course in public speaking taught by Wallace McPhee at the Albany Adult Education Center, 603 Key Route Blvd., is still accepting new registrations according to Robert G. Dennis, principal. One of the primary aims of this class, held on Wednesday evenings, 7:30 to 9:30, is to train men and women to stand up on their feet and say what they have to say confidently and effectively.

The physiology of the voice, the mechanics of vocalization, the qualities of a good voice, the kinds of speeches, how to prepare a speech—these are some of the aspects of public speaking which are thoroughly covered in Mr. McPhee's classes.

Special emphasis is placed upon the active participation of all the class members in the work. The instructor stresses the fact that public speaking is to a great extent a physical skill which, like tennis or swimming for example, can be learned only by doing.

Another unique feature of this course, open to the enrollment of neighboring communities as well as of Albany, is the great importance which the instructor attaches to vocabulary building. Since words are the symbols of ideas, it follows that the more words with which we are familiar, the better we are able to describe our ideas.

Albany High PTA To Meet Thursday

The first regular meeting of the Albany High School PTA will be held Thursday, Oct. 13, with Mrs. Leslie Burman, president, presiding. Tea will be served in the new school cafeteria from 1:45 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. to give members a chance to welcome and get acquainted with parents of 8th grade students. Mrs. Tony LaRossa and Mrs. Ted Latava will be tea hostesses. Mrs. Fred Brown, hospitality chairman, will be registrar, assisted by Mrs. Shirley Weeks, 8th grade representative.

Following the social hour, a program will be presented in the auditorium. Mrs. Lawrence Collins, program chairman, will present as guest speaker, Mrs. Ruth Howard Penne, secretary of the United Nations / International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), for Northern California. The music portion of the program will be under the direction of Mr. A. McCarthy, music teacher at Albany High School, also serving as music chairman of the PTA unit.

A part of each class meeting is devoted to exercises in vocabulary building and word analysis.

Utility District Net Value Nears 150 Millions

"The citizen - owners of the East Bay Municipal Utility District now have a water system and sewage disposal system with a net value of nearly 150 million dollars," Louis L. Breuner, president of the EBMUD Board of Directors, declared today.

Breuner's comment is based on the just - released EBMUD financial report for the fiscal year 1954-1955, prepared by Ernest & Ernest, certified accountants.

The published statement for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1955, shows the net value of the EBMUD water service plant and properties to be $127,101,940. The EBMUD sewage disposal system net value is shown as $22,784,094. This is a combined total increase of nearly $5,000,000 from the previous year.

The bonded debt of the water system, which has been reduced regularly over the years from the original $77,000,000 now totals $40,985,000, according to the report. The bonded debt balance of the sewage disposal system is now $20,325,000 of the $23,500,000 voted in 1946 to construct the modern treatment and disposal plant and interceptor lines. The sewage system serves the cities of Alameda, Albany, Berkeley, Emeryville, Oakland and Piedmont.

Revenue from water sales amounted to $12,373,557 during the fiscal year, an increase of 2.7 percent over the previous year. Tax receipts totalled $2,603,683. Sale of electric power generated at the district's Paradise Dam powerhouse on the Mokelumne River provided an additional $338,665.

Operating revenues of Special District No. 1, the sewage system, totalled $1,133,226, with tax revenues contributing another $758,000.

Lean John Flaco's Horseback Ride To San Francisco

Of all the wild and rugged horse back rides in the history of the United States that of "Lean John" or "Juan Flaco" from Los Angeles to San Francisco was probably the wildest and most rugged.

It got under way back in the fall of 1846 when the war between the United States and Mexico was drawing to a close. General Fremont and Commodore Stockton captured Los Angeles and then one off to the north leaving that noble under the military rule of Captain Gillespie and fifty men.

Captain Gillespie was inclined to be too severe in his rule and his severity finally led the Angelenos to revolt. Near the end of September found himself and his men on a small hill and some 600 Californians with guns and cannons camped around the bottom preparing to attack.

At this point, Captain Gillespie called in "Lean John" Brown, an ex-sailor in his middle forties who was tough and wiry and had a way with a horse. The captain told John that Commodore Stockton was at Monterey and that John would have to reach him there and get help from him, or all was lost.

On the night of September 21, John Brown moved stealthily down the hill leading his large white stallion. Some barking dogs aroused him, and soon they were on his trail. Two miles out, his sturdy horse leaped a thirteen foot ditch and the enemy were left behind. But not before they had left a bullet in the body of the stallion so that two miles further on it died, leaving "Juan Flaco" afoot.

He ran and stumbled for 27 miles to the nearest ranch, got some rest, breakfast, and a new horse, and on the evening of September 25, arrived in Santa Barbara. He told officers there of the trouble at Los Angeles, and then rode on to Monterey. On the third day he arrived in Monterey only to find that Stockton had sailed for San Francisco just two hours earlier.

After a sleep of three hours John mounted his horse again and was off to San Francisco, making it there in a little less than eight hours of actual riding time. When he got there to find the little town embroiled in fire and no ship from Monterey in sight, he lay down on the beach at the waterfront and slept. Early next morning Commodore Stockton arrived, and John Brown, some 630 miles and four days out of Los Angeles, made his full report.

Absence of occupation is not rest. —William Cowper.

Native Daughters Id Restoration Of Mission

Mission La Nuestra Senora De La Soledad, original 1811 will rise again next Sunday, Oct. 9, summoning all to come to the restoration service of the restored chapel. Arrangements for the event are under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Orinda Giannini, grand chairman of the mission restoration committee of the Native Daughters of the Golden West.

Built in 1791, Mission Soledad was 13th in a chain of 21 such early California Missions. Subjected to the elements and neglect, the mission that once offered shelter to many travelers, quickly disintegrated following secularization in 1835. Last of the Franciscan Padres to administer there was Padre Vicente Sarria, who died there.

The first step of the restoration of the mission to its original state is the completion of the chapel. The dedication ceremony will start with a Solemn High Mass to be sung at noon by Rev. David Temple, OFM, provincial of the Franciscan Order for the western area. Dedication of the chapel will be under the direction of Rev. Msgr. James Cullen, chancellor of the Monterey Fresno Diocese. Principal speaker of the afternoon will be Joseph R. Knowland.

The public is invited to attend the ceremonies and program. A barbecue will be served in the vicinity of the mission, after the program.

Members of Albany Parlor No. 260, Native Daughters of the Golden West are taking an active part in raising funds for the continuation of the restoration of Mission Soledad. Mrs. Bernice Collins is general chairman, with Mrs. Lena Brissell and Mrs. Lillian Mattos, co - chairmen of the fund raising project.
